

The diagram shows a rectangular print layout with a light gray background. It is enclosed by a red border, which represents the cut line. Inside this, there is a blue border representing the safety line. At the top, two gray arrows point from the center towards the top-left and top-right corners of the red border. A horizontal gray arrow at the middle points from the center towards the left and right edges of the blue border. The text is centered within the layout.
